MRS. SURUCHI SHARMA

ABSTRACT

This paper deals with the partition between India and Pakistan. After partition how people became mentally sick and psychologically depress. Chaman Nahal depicted a photographic detail the catastrophic episode that was enacted on the Indian soil immediately before and after the declaration of the British decision in June 1947 to vacate India after partitioning it. Nahal showed how people of Pakistan have been living together with peace and harmony, but after the partition world is shaken by the creation of Pakistan.

Socio-Psychology is the scientific study of how people's thoughts, feelings, and behaviours are influenced by the actual, imagined or implied presence of others. Social Psychologists therefore deal with the factors that lead us to behave in a given way in the presence of others and look at the conditions under which certain behavior/actions and feelings, thoughts, beliefs, intentions and goals are constructed and how such psychological factors, in turn influence our interaction with others. The term socio-psychological means factors which are related to the society and psychology which are ultimately related to the life. The society and psychology are deeply related to each other. So we can say that when the writer is able to highlight his Indo-Pak Relations After 1947 Pakistan has taken to aggression four times- 1947, 1965 1971 and lastly in 1999 and every time has come to grief. Besides there have been proxy wars in the form of large scale infiltrations and low intensity conflicts. Despite adverse results in each war Pak continued with its anti-India posture. It is such a strange fact that, a country born out of India's own flesh and blood should be so very rebellious against India. In the year 1947 when India got its independence from the British rule the leaders of the Muslim community in India demanded a separate state for themselves and they got it, Pakistan was born by the hacking off parts of India. However it is so very sad, and an irony of India's fate that even after getting their demands fulfilled, Pakistan has never since independence been genuinely friendly with India it's may we call, Creator. Ever since the year 1947, the relations of India and Pakistan have never been cordial. Pakistan has always been indulging in skirmishes small and big on the border with India. To this, India has also been continuously retaliating thus making the relationship rather bitter. The India Pakistan relationship can be compared to the relations of two brothers fighting for property rights and indulging in all possible tantrums. This continuous bad feeling between India and Pakistan has resulted in Pakistan's latest plans of terrorists' attacks on India. This continued cold war shows the ultimate culmination of rage of Pakistan against India.
